

What's in the Box?

During a unit of work on measurement the children used rulers to measure different objects. Then they worked hard to construct a box which is the correct size to fit their object. The children began to use terms such as length, width and depth when measuring. Many children were successful and making their box the correct size.