

The visit to Nightingale Care Home

The visit to the Nightingale Care Home was a great experience for our children and us. The children were very well behaved and they cooperated with the elders. They sat next to the elders and listened to them which made the old people happy. They learned each other's names and the children joined the activities being completed by the elderly. We visited the synagogue and all our children asked very interesting questions, the person who showed us around was impressed by our children's knowledge of the Jewish religion (thanks to the Islamic studies lessons). The pupils were showing their knowledge of Islam by telling them how we celebrate Eid, how we fast, and what we have to do if we want Allah SWT to be happy with us.

It was a very good experience as we live in a mixed religion society. I believe our children must know about all the religions that we are told about in the Quran.
